

BOOKS FOR THE HOLIDAYS.—

to, 1858.

This book contains some of the choicest effusions of Brandreth, Horae, Burney, Colly, Campbell, Edmonson, Griswold, Hobart, Hemans, Hogarth, Keats, Moore, Peacock, Pocock, Potts, Rogers, Scott, Southey, Tennyson, Trelawny, Wordsworth, Willis, and Whittier, as well as many names from unknown authors.

"Attesteth this is a most attractive Contribution to American Literature."

"This is a tasteful and elegant book, the typography, rich tinted paper, and illustrative engravings, being in the best style of art. The idea of bringing together in one volume such a variety of poetical effusions to which the author has given such great poetic finish, is most judicious. Many of these pieces are poetical gems, characterized by the sparkle of genius, and the radiance and beauty of pure and devout sentiment."

THE PROVERBS OF SOLOMON.

Here is wisdom from above, and beauty itself in these wise maxims. An introduction to the study of the Proverbs of Solomon, by Dr. Hamilton of London, whose writings are as well known in this country as in his own."
